

Wolters Kluwer Law & Business Delivers Breaking News and Expert Analysis for the Legal Professional – Online and Via Mobile Apps

Daily Reporting Suite Specialty Topics include: Antitrust, Securities Regulation, Health Law, Employment Law & Intellectual Property

NEW YORK – December 3, 2012 - Wolters Kluwer Law & Business, the leading global provider of intelligent solutions and expertise for legal and business professionals, today announced the release of the Wolters Kluwer Daily Reporting Suite, the Company's latest tool for tracking daily developments in the law's fastest-changing and most complex practice areas. The Daily Reporting Suite includes specialty legal topics including: Antitrust, Securities Regulation, Health Law, Employment Law and Intellectual Property. Wolters Kluwer also plans to expand the Suite to cover more practice areas in 2013

These daily news services will deliver breaking news from both the federal and state level, the latest rulemaking and updates on litigation as well as a complete summary of the daily legal news via email, RSS feed, and mobile apps for iPad, iPhone, Blackberry, and Android. Dailies covering intellectual property and employment were launched in the past year and today new dailies in antitrust, securities, and health law will be available to complete the suite.

“Legal professionals consistently tell us they need a reliable news source to keep them fully briefed on breaking legal news, court decisions, and legislative and regulatory developments that impact every aspect of their practice. At Wolters Kluwer, our team of attorney-editors has unique expertise to deliver this Daily Reporting Suite and make the critical challenge of staying up-to-date with relevant cases, statutory changes and new rulemakings a much faster and more streamlined process,” said Wolters Kluwer Legal Markets leader Robert Lemmond.

The dailies are designed specifically to help attorneys manage large amounts of information relevant to their practice areas and anticipate clients' needs more efficiently than ever before.

According to Marc D. Powers, National Leader of BakerHostetler's Securities Litigation & Regulatory Enforcement Practice, “Wolters Kluwer for my practice is the most authoritative source of information on securities laws. This new daily service will be extremely helpful for busy securities lawyers. Its easy- to- read format allows for a quick review and analysis of what is important for our clients. Also, Securities Regulation Daily conveniently enables me to access it on my mobile devices and forward to my colleagues.”

According to Jason Drangel of Epstein Drangel, who uses IP Law Daily, “It has been an incredible source of timely decisions, congressional activities relevant to our field, and U.S.

Patent and Trademark Office activities. I recently found out about a decision that affected our client first through the Daily.”

The Law Dailies will deliver a wide range of relevant content to lawyers, in-house counsel, and health and legal professionals, including best-in-class synopses from Wolters Kluwer Law and Business attorney-editors, links to the full text of new cases, regulatory and statutory developments, and breaking news. Some of the most useful features of this new tool include:

- Daily email summaries written by knowledgeable attorneys and industry experts with links to the full text of any new cases, regulatory or statutory developments, and breaking news.
- Seamless access to information from ANY mobile device without being prompted for logins/passwords. Other legal news services require logins creating unnecessary time delays. The Wolters Kluwer Daily Reporting Suite is especially helpful for attorneys on the go.
- The ability to customize content by topical area and jurisdiction so users can view the content that is the most relevant to them
- Built-in copyright permissions that permit legal professionals to instantly share information with clients or colleagues without having to download or reassemble information.
- Time-saving mobile apps with customizable home page, ability to filter by topic/jurisdiction, note-taking capabilities, favorites folders and email functionality
- A searchable archive on Wolters Kluwer’s proprietary online content delivery platform, IntelliConnect.
